

Retail Sales Allocation Tool (RSAT) Now Available for FY2015

The Simple Steps program is happy to announce the Retail Sales Allocation Tool (RSAT) for FY2015. There are some great new features and data. This updated version of the RSAT will be used to improve the accuracy of the Simple Steps program allocations for FY15. The RSAT is also the tool that will make midstream and upstream appliance measures reportable in an accurate and transparent way.

Please request a copy of the 2015 Retail Sales Allocation Tool from your EER. Your feedback, comments, and questions are very welcome.

The tool has been improved with better data, more stores, more store chains and more products. Utility supplied information has also been used to augment the tool. We appreciate our customers who provided us with zip code and house count data. Additional data from customers can be incorporated into the next version for 2016. Contact your EER for information.

More information on the RSAT is now available on the Residential program web page here. A FAQ document is here.

Program Contact: For more information, please contact David Murphy, Appliance and Lighting Program Manager at demurphy@bpa.gov.

